EDITOR'S PREFACE.

IT is a maxim sanctioned by the best authority that literary productions, in order to their highest effectiveness, should aim to economize the reader's attention by so presenting ideas that they may be apprehended with the least possible mental effort. Language being aptly styled "an apparatus of symbols for the conveyance of thought," it is insisted that "whatever force is absorbed by the machine is deducted from the result."

The principle here brought into notice strikingly applies to the study of the Revised New Testament as a revision. It may, in that relation, be formulated thus: The more time and attention it takes to learn what the changes made by the Revisers are, the less time and attention can be given to becoming familiar with those changes and forming a judgment respecting them. Before the proper study of the Revision, on its merits, can begin, answers must be had to four leading inquiries. Three of these are the following:

1. What portions of the Authorized Version have the Revisers approved and retained?
2. What new renderings have they introduced?
3. What portions of the Authorized Version have they excluded?

On these points, in view of their manifest importance, intelligent students of the Holy Word will desire accurate information. How, then, in the absence of special helps, is this information to be obtained? Solely by a careful word-for-word Comparison of the Revision with the Common Version. But such a comparison—to be made by each individual for himself—is practically out of the question; for, owing to the amount of labor and perplexity involved, not one person in ten thousand would seriously think of attempting it.

The Revised New Testament contains, in the text, 179,914 words. One comparison, then, of the kind referred to, would require that the reader—with this special object before his mind, and while passing his eye from one Version to the other many more times than there are verses in the New Testament—should fix his attention, separately, upon three hundred and sixty thousand words. And what, it is well to inquire, would such a labor, if carried successfully through, yield in the way of practical advantage? Almost nothing at all. The "machine" would, at every stage of the toilsome process, have absorbed so much of the available mental power as virtually to have left none for the "result." Nor is this all. The comparison, to be really useful, would, as respects much of the ground gone over, have to be indefinitely repeated. But utility however great would be accounted dear at such a cost; and the Bible student, perceiving this, would assuredly leave off the labor before it was meddled with.

Happily, the difficulties in question are not insuperable. They were foreseen and carefully weighed nearly two years previous to the publication of the Revised New Testament; and a plan for overcoming them was published in the month of January, 1880. The scheme then put forth and exemplified encountered, it is believed, no adverse criticism from any quarter. On the contrary, it was greeted with hearty approval by a very considerable number of competent judges, among them some of the foremost Biblical scholars of the nation.

The plan referred to is embodied in the present volume. The Revised New Testament, in the text, contains (as stated above, and as appears in detail elsewhere) 179,914 words. Of that number, 154,526 are retained from the text of the Authorized Version; and in this edition every one of these latter, by the method used, is known in its true character at sight. There occur in many verses transpositions of retained words; which fact is in each case shown by a curve after the verse numeral. In these ways about eighty-six per cent. of the text of the Revision is practically removed from the field of comparison, and therefore imposes no tax upon the time and attention required for the examination of the renderings which the Revisers have introduced. Thus far, then, the system employed fully provides for the desired economy of attention, and a mountain load of discouraging and confusing labor is put out of the way. It is proper here to add, that it has not been attempted, by a mark of any kind, to indicate those passages wherein the meaning of the Common Version has been modified by revisional changes in the punctuation.

Somewhat more than fourteen per cent. of the text of the Revision consists of words that the Revisers have introduced. Their number is 25,388. In this volume, every one of these is underlined; by which means its character, as an introduced word, is discerned at a glance. And here again the outlay of time and attention in noting revisional changes is reduced to a minimum.

A comparison of the new matter of the Revision with the cancelled matter of the Authorized Version is possible only when the words composing the latter class are in sight. Their number is 26,104; and in this volume they appear, as ("A. V.") Foot-notes, at the bottom of each page, being separated by a rule from the Marginal readings of the Revision. Chapter and verse are given, and the words retain the order in which they stand in the A. V. text.

Concisely stated, the three fundamental features of the Student's Revised New Testament are the following :

1. Whatever is common to both Versions is unmarked.
2. Whatever is peculiar to the Revision is underlined.
3. Whatever is peculiar to the Authorized Version is given in the "A.V." Foot-notes.

Each of the two last named classes of matter admits of very helpful diacritical subdivisions.

(1) The introduced matter is made up of added and substituted renderings. To distinguish between these in the marking is, in effect, to complete the only possible comparison of the added renderings with the Authorized Version. The dotted line and the dotted parallel serve this useful end, and 5,204 of the underlined words are known, at sight, as not substitutional. It follows that the number of underlined words inviting actual comparison with the A. V. text is 20,184. (2) A similar subdivision is seen in the "A. V." Foot-notes. The parenthesis and brackets inclose a total of 6,858 words, which are thus known, at sight, as not alternated by anything in the Revised text; and the number of revisionally excluded words to be compared with the underlined text, is reduced to 19,246. The great saving of labor effected by the foregoing discriminations, and the resulting satisfaction, must be apparent to whoever gives the subject a thought.

A fourth inquiry underlying a proper estimate of the labors of the Committee of New Testament Revisers is this: What changes made by them—whether of addition, substitution, or exclusion—are due to Critical changes in the Greek text? Here, obviously, no help whatever can be derived from the English versions alone. Recourse must be had to the Text which the Revisers themselves used. That text, carefully edited by Archdeacon PALMER, and verified by Dr. SCRIVENER (who "kept the record for the New Testament Revision Company of the readings which it adopted"), has been published by the Oxford University Press; and, fortunately, it was given to the world in season to become the basis of one of the most valuable features of this edition of the Revised New Testament. The Greek Testament referred to clearly indicates the "large number of readings" adopted by the Revisers and which deviate "from the text presumed to underlie the Authorized Version."

The effect of these critical readings upon the Revised Version has been ascertained with very great care, and the volume here offered to the public is on every page enriched with the results of that investigation. In the underlined text, the dotted parallel marks 550 words as renderings of added readings of the Critical Greek text, and the plain parallel marks 1,604 words as renderings of substituted readings of that text. In the "A. V" foot-notes, upright dashes inclose 1,515 words based on substituted spurious readings of the Received Greek text, and brackets inclose 3,193 words based on added spurious readings of that text. Thus it appears that, on critical grounds, 2,154 words find a place in the Revised text; while 4,708 words of the A. V text are, on the same grounds, revisionally excluded. It would not comport with the design of these prefatory remarks to set forth what is believed to be the immense value of the Revision as a whole; but it is within their proper scope to suggest that lovers of inspired truth cannot too highly appreciate a Version based on an original which embodies so largely the ripest results of textual criticism. And if this is so, it must be a useful service to place those results intelligibly before Bible students acquainted only with the English tongue.

The Student's Revised New Testament fulfils its mission, as the labor-saving edition, in an important particular not elsewhere mentioned. The marginal verse notation, adopted in the University editions in connection with the paragraph system, is unquestionably right; but it causes what is widely felt to be a great inconvenience, and which has been referred to as such by a leading member of the American New Testament Company. The inconvenience spoken of is that of being unable, in countless instances, to tell readily where the verse begins. In very many cases it can be known only by referring to the Common Version. This serious defect is overcome in the present edition. A shortened upright parallel, caught instantly by the eye, marks the initial word of every verse; and uncertainty or suspense is rendered impossible.

There are no facts or statistics having any relation to the Revision in its published form that will not be of interest to some one. It is in view of this that the "Numerical Summary" at the end of the volume, and the tabular matter on page 602, have been prepared. They furnish ready answers to a variety of questions which familiarity with the diacritical character of the work will naturally suggest. Adding nothing to the price of the volume, they will be accepted for whatever of value or interest they may possess. Earnest minds will not be diverted by them from those things that are confessedly of far greater importance.

For the purposes of the majority of those who will make a profitable use of this edition of the Revision a sufficiently full explanation of its plan will be found on the page facing the Gospel of Matthew. The working out of the scheme has, however, brought to light some special phases of which it has been judged fitting to give a brief account. This is done in the ensuing Supplement, which contains also a number of items of a more general character.

May the blessing of Almighty God rest upon the labors which have been a delight to those privileged to take part in them, and which are here brought to a close.

RUFUS WENDELL.

PREFACE SUPPLEMENT.

1. Excepting the curves, and the asterisk and dagger, the diacritical marks, on the ground of likeness or contrast, arrange themselves in pairs. Thus "1" and "3" refer to matter in the Authorized Version; "2" and "4" perform a mutually opposite service; "4" and "16" mark the same words; "5" and "12" always, "6" and "14" usually, and "7" and "13" never involve substitution; and "8" and "15" refer, the one to genuine, the other to spurious, added readings of the Greek text.

2. Throughout the work, all matter marked with the plain line, in the text, is substituted for uninclosed matter in the "A. V" foot-notes. So, also, such uninclosed matter has always an alternative rendering, marked with the plain line, in the text.

3. Another rule, departed from only when a change of construction required it for the sake of clearness, has been that no word common to the Authorized and Revised versions should be underlined in the text or appear in the "A. V" foot-notes. If in this part of the work there has been misjudgment, it has been in following the rule too closely; for it will occasionally be found that a word has been treated as common which is so only in orthography and pronunciation, not in meaning or construction. It is thought that the few words thus dealt with will occasion no difficulty in noting the changes made by the Revisers.

4. The peculiar nature of the text, as a revision and not a new translation, has given a highly analytic character to the labors embodied in the present edition. More than fourteen per cent. of the matter (over and above mere transpositions of retained words) has been changed by the Revisers; involving a wide range of alterations, in word, phrase, and clause; by addition and exclusion; by expansion and contraction; by transposition and transference. In treating subordinate clauses, the Revisers have used the greatest freedom; turning them into infinitive and participial forms, or promoting them to the rank of principal clauses; and again making the reverse changes to subordinate forms. Sometimes the alteration is in a single word, the connective; sometimes it involves the whole construction; and still other changes exemplify the varying degrees between these extremes. In marking, the subordinate connective, as being simply an addition, has received the dotted line in the text; or, when sent to the "A. V." foot-notes as simply excluded matter, has been inclosed in a parenthesis; while the remaining alterations have been dealt with on general principles, according to their character.

5. The curves, in connection with the verse numerals; the dotted line and dotted parallel, in the text; and the parenthesis and brackets, in the "A. V." foot-notes, have been invariably applied in strict accordance with the explanations given of them as diacritical marks.

6. Revision renderings of critically substituted Greek, since in some cases they do not take the place of anything in the Common version, are not always substitutional with respect to the English text; and foot-note matter based on spurious substitutions in the Greek is sometimes not superseded by a revised translation. Examples involving these anomalies fall into classes, which it may be of use briefly to specify.

(1) The Greek abounds in compound forms, which in translation are usually separated into their primitives. When a compound takes the place of a simple form, there is, in strictness, a critical substitution; whereas in the version it may appear simply as an addition. This addition cannot, however, following the rule applicable to an ordinary fuller rendering, receive the dotted line; but, being due to a substituted Greek reading, must be marked with the plain parallel, as if it were also a substituted rendering. On the other hand, the replacement of a compound by a simple form, in the Greek, may send to the "A. V." foot-notes matter which, as it rests on a substituted spurious reading in the original, must be inclosed by upright dashes, though it has no alternative rendering in the Revision. Examples: in the text, Matt. viii. 2, "to him"; Luke iv. 42, "after"; in the foot-notes, Matt. vii. 2, "again"; Luke ix. 38, "out."

(2) The Greek has no single words to represent the English auxiliaries, except in rare instances the auxiliary be. When forms of the verb requiring the auxiliary to render them into English are substituted for those which do not, or the reverse, the auxiliary alone is marked in the text or shown in the foot-notes. Examples: in the text, Mark xi. 8, "had"; Luke xii. 58, "shall"; in the foot-notes, Luke vi. 9, "will"; viii. 29, "had."

(3) In a few instances, the change is in the principal verb, the common word being used as an auxiliary on the one hand, and as a principal verb on the other. Examples: in the text, 1 Thess. ii. 8, "become"; Rev. xxii. 11, "made"; in the foot-notes, Matt. xvi. 8, "brought."

(4) In substitutions between the imperative, when it is rendered into English without an auxiliary, and the infinitive or other forms, which require other words to show their relations. Examples: in the text, Luke ix. 38, "to"; in the foot-notes, Acts ix. 38, "that he would."

(5) In substitutions between different forms of the same verb, new subjects appear as imperfect substitutes, the verb remaining common. Examples: "they" in the text of Luke xii. 53 and Acts xviii. 3.

(6) In substitutions between simple words, forms requiring two words to render them in English may be replaced by those requiring one, and the reverse. These occur in the exchange of comparative or superlative forms of adjectives for positive, diminutive nouns for their primitives, adjectives used adverbially for those used substantively, etc. Examples: in the text, Mark iv. 1, "very"; xii. 33, "much"; in the foot-notes, Mark xv. 14, "the more"; 2 Tim. i. 17, "very"; Heb. xii. 24, "things"; Rev. x. 8, "little."

(7) Substitutions between different cases of the same nouns cause no change in English, except in the peculiar prepositions which express their relations. These produce imperfect alternations when the nominative or accusative is substituted for the genitive or dative, and the reverse. Examples: in the text, Mark ii. 16, "of"; Rev. xix. 5, "to"; in the foot-notes, Mark ii. 18, "of"; Luke i. 50, "to."

(8) A word is sometimes translated in one version and its critical substitute is untranslated in the other. Examples: in the text, Matt. xiv. 13, "now"; Rom. xiii. 11, "you"; in the foot-notes, Mark iv. 8, 20, "some"; Heb. xii. 11, "now."

(9) A rendering is sometimes critically introduced, or rejected, while the alternative rendering, being common to both versions, is unmarked. Examples: in the text, Luke xvi. 25, "here"; John xiv. 14, "that"; in the foot-notes, Matt. ix. 5, "thee"; Mark ii. 9, "thee."

(10) Miscellaneous peculiarities. Examples: in the text, Matt. xxii. 39, "this"; Mark i. 39, "went"; Eph. v. 5, "of a surety"; Rev. xii. 5, "a child"; in the foot-notes, Luke xi. 11, "if"; John xi. 57, "a."

7. Some difficulty has been found in properly distributing the English words "cannot"; "no," equivalent to "not"; and "lest," equivalent to "that not," in cases of critical alternation not involving the negative in the original. In Mark iii. 25 "will not be able" occurs as a critical substitute for "cannot." In fact, the change in the Greek does not involve the common "not"; but inasmuch as the A. V. "not" is part of "cannot," and it was deemed desirable to have the critical basis of the new rendering appear, the whole has been marked as critical. See Mark iv. 40 and Col. ii. 4, where a non-critical common negative also occurs.

8. Several classes may be mentioned wherein critical changes in the Greek, due to added or cancelled readings, have not been indicated by diacritical marks: (1) Sometimes the change has no effect upon the translation; (2) often the A. V. rendering of a critically cancelled word is revisionally retained in Italics as being demanded to complete the thought; and (3) it sometimes happens that a word in Italics in the A. V. has, by an addition in the Greek text, become an actual rendering in the Revision.

9. The A. V. marginal renderings which have been adopted in the Revised text have commonly alternates in the "A. V." foot-notes. Sometimes, as in Matt. vi. 1, the marginal renderings adopted have a critical basis. On the other hand, those portions of the A. V. text which are retained in the Revision margin may be simple exclusions, as in Matt. xvi. 7; usually, however, they are alternates of the Revised text, as in Mark xiv. 24. The diacritical marks designated by "2" and "16" have been used, wherever they appear, in preference to those that would otherwise be applicable, in conformity to the principle that the text and margin of the Authorized Version shall have credit for all that they have contributed to the text or margin of the Revision.

10. The renderings of the Revision margin have been compared with the A. V. and Revised texts and with the A. V. margin. All such renderings, that are not underlined, are either repeated from the text or retained from the A. V. margin. All added words are marked with the dotted line or the dotted parallel. To understand the application of the plain line, and the plain parallel, to the Revision margin, it must be remembered that the alternation is made with the A. V. text. Where the A. V. and Revised texts differ there is, of course, an alternation with each; it is commonly revisional, sometimes critical. In one place, at least, 2 Cor. iii. 14, the margin is critical with reference to both texts.

11. No attempt has been made to note textual changes in the Greek, except so far as they appear in the Revision. All additions and exclusions appear as a matter of course, except as indicated in paragraph 8; so do substitutions in the great majority of cases. While in some instances the critical alteration would not allow an altered rendering, in others it legitimates a former mistranslation of the Received Greek text. In some places changes in the Revision accompany those in the Greek, but are of such a nature that the former were not dictated by the latter. The guiding principle has been to mark as critical everything of critical importance; and in cases of a change of word simultaneous with a change of rendering the fact has been noted irrespective of the question of dependence of the latter upon the former. An illustration occurs in Acts xviii. 3, where "occupation" in the A. V. becomes "trade" in the Revision. The critical change is from the accusative to the dative case,—no ground whatever for the alternative rendering. No change would have been made had not "trade" been deemed by the Revisers a better word than "occupation." The changes in the Greek which, as respects their critical character, have been left unnoticed in marking, are of words whose radical idea has been changed in revising; while the critical changes, could they be shown at all, would appear in some words expressing the relation of that idea, such as prepositions and auxiliary verbs. Critical changes have had the benefit of all doubts. Cases of critical transposition have not been distinguished from the non-critical; while cases of merely seeming transposition have been marked as substitutional, according to the fact.

12. Fourteen entire verses of the Authorized Version have been cancelled by the Revisers. They are the following: Matt. xvii. 21; xviii. 11; Mark vii. 16; ix. 44, 46; xi. 26; xv. 28; Luke xvii. 36; xxiii. 17; John v. 4; Acts viii. 37; xv. 34; xxiv. 7; xxviii. 29.

13. The Student's Revised New Testament, in its text and marginal notes, is an exact reprint of the Pica 8vo. edition of the Oxford University Press. In the labor of compiling the "A. V." Foot-notes, Bagster's "Comprehensive Bible," on account of its large type, has been used as a convenient working basis of comparison with the Authorized Version. It is proper, however, to state that, in cases of known discrepancy, verbal or orthographic, between the Bagster text or margin and that of the Oxford Nonpareil 16mo. New Testament, the latter has been invariably followed as the A. V. standard.

R. W

PREFACE.

THE English Version of the New Testament here presented to the reader is a Revision of the Translation published in the year of Our Lord 1611, and commonly known by the name of the Authorised Version.

That Translation was the work of many hands and of several generations. The foundation was laid by William Tyndale. His translation of the New Testament was the true primary Version. The Versions that followed were either substantially reproductions of Tyndale's translation in its final shape, or revisions of Versions that had been themselves almost entirely based on it. Three successive stages may be recognised in this continuous work of authoritative revision: first, the publication of the Great Bible of 1539-41 in the reign of Henry VIII; next, the publication of the Bishops' Bible of 1568 and 1572 in the reign of Elizabeth; and lastly, the publication of the King's Bible of 1611 in the reign of James I. Besides these, the Genevan Version of 1560, itself founded on Tyndale's translation, must here be named; which, though not put forth by authority, was widely circulated in this country, and largely used by King James' Translators. Thus the form in which the English New Testament has now been read for 270 years was the result of various revisions made between 1525 and 1611; and the present Revision is an attempt, after a long interval, to follow the example set by a succession of honoured predecessors.

I. Of the many points of interest connected with the Translation of 1611, two require special notice; first, the Greek Text which it appears to have represented; and secondly, the character of the Translation itself.

1. With regard to the Greek Text, it would appear that, if to some extent the Translators exercised an independent judgement, it was mainly in choosing amongst readings contained in the principal editions of the Greek Text that had appeared in the sixteenth century. Wherever they seem to have followed a reading which is not found in any of those editions, their rendering may probably be traced to the Latin Vulgate. Their chief guides appear to have been the later editions of Stephanus and of Beza, and also, to a certain extent, the Complutensian Polyglott. All these were founded for the most part on manuscripts of late date, few in number, and used with little critical skill. But in those days it could hardly have been otherwise. Nearly all the more ancient of the documentary authorities have become known only within the last two centuries; some of the most important of them, indeed, within the last few years. Their publication has called forth not only improved editions of the Greek Text, but a succession of instructive discussions on the variations which have been brought to light, and on the best modes of distinguishing original readings from changes introduced in the course of transcription. While therefore it has long been the opinion of all scholars that the commonly received text needed thorough revision, it is but recently that materials have been acquired for executing such a work with even approximate completeness.

2. The character of the Translation itself will be best estimated by considering the leading rules under which it was made, and the extent to which these rules appear to have been observed.

The primary and fundamental rule was expressed in the following terms:—‘The ordinary Bible read in the Church, commonly called the Bishops’ Bible, to be followed, and as little altered as the truth of the Original will permit.’ There was, however, this subsequent provision:—‘These translations to be used, when they agree better with the text than the Bishops’ Bible: Tindale’s, Matthew’s, Coverdale’s, Whitchurch’s, Geneva.’ The first of these rules, which was substantially the same as that laid down at the revision of the Great Bible in the reign of Elizabeth, was strictly observed. The other rule was but partially followed. The Translators made much use of the Genevan Version. They do not however appear to have frequently returned to the renderings of the other Versions named in the rule, where those Versions differed from the Bishops’ Bible. On the other hand, their work shews evident traces of the influence of a Version not specified in the rules, the Rhemish, made from the Latin Vulgate, but by scholars conversant with the Greek Original.

Another rule, on which it is stated that those in authority laid great stress, related to the rendering of words that admitted of different interpretations. It was as follows:—‘When a word hath divers significations, that to be kept which hath been most commonly used by the most of the ancient fathers, being agreeable to the propriety of the place and the analogy of the faith.’ With this rule was associated the following, on which equal stress appears to have been laid:—‘The old ecclesiastical words to be kept, viz. the word Church not to be translated Congregation, &c.’ This latter rule was for the most part carefully observed; but it may be doubted whether, in the case of words that admitted of different meanings, the instructions were at all closely followed. In dealing with the more difficult words of this class, the Translators appear to have paid much regard to traditional interpretations, and especially to the authority of the Vulgate; but, as to the large residue of words which might properly fall under the rule, they used considerable freedom. Moreover they profess in their Preface to have studiously adopted a variety of expression which would now be deemed hardly consistent with the requirements of faithful translation. They seem to have been guided by the feeling that their Version would secure for the words they used a lasting place in the language; and they express a fear lest they should 'be charged (by scoffers) with some unequal dealing towards a great number of good English words,' which, without this liberty on their part, would not have a place in the pages of the English Bible. Still it cannot be doubted that they carried this liberty too far, and that the studied avoidance of uniformity in the rendering of the same words, even when occurring in the same context, is one of the blemishes in their work.

A third leading rule was of a negative character, but was rendered necessary by the experience derived from former Versions. The words of the rule are as follows:—'No marginal notes at all to be affixed, but only for the explanation of the Hebrew or Greek words which cannot without some circumlocution so briefly and fitly be expressed in the text.' Here again the Translators used some liberty in their application of the rule. Out of more than 760 marginal notes originally appended to the Authorised Version of the New Testament, only a seventh part consists of explanations or literal renderings; the great majority of the notes being devoted to the useful and indeed necessary purpose of placing before the reader alternative renderings which it was judged that the passage or the words would fairly admit. The notes referring to variations in the Greek Text amount to about thirty-five.

Of the remaining rules it may be sufficient to notice one, which was for the most part consistently followed:—'The names of the prophets and the holy writers, with the other names of the text, to be retained, as high as may be, accordingly as they were vulgarly used.' The Translators had also the liberty, in 'any place of special obscurity,' to consult those who might be qualified to give an opinion.

Passing from these fundamental rules, which should be borne in mind by any one who would rightly understand the nature and character of the Authorised Version, we must call attention to the manner in which the actual work of the translation was carried on. The New Testament was assigned to two separate Companies, the one consisting of eight members, sitting at Oxford, the other consisting of seven members, sitting at Westminster. There is no reason to believe that these Companies ever sat together. They communicated to each other, and likewise to the four Companies to which the Old Testament and the Apocrypha had been committed, the results of their labours; and perhaps afterwards reconsidered them: but the fact that the New Testament was divided between two separate bodies of men involved a grave inconvenience, and was beyond all doubt the cause of many inconsistencies. These probably would have been much more serious, had it not been provided that there should be a final supervision of the whole Bible, by selected members from Oxford, Cambridge, and Westminster, the three centres at which the work had been carried on. These supervisors are said by one authority to have been six in number, and by another twelve. When it is remembered that this supervision was completed in nine months, we may wonder that the incongruities which remain are not more numerous.

The Companies appear to have been occupied in the actual business of revision about two years and three quarters.

Such, so far as can be gathered from the rules and modes of procedure, is the character of the time-honoured Version which we have been called upon to revise. We have had to study this great Version carefully and minutely, line by line; and the longer we have been engaged upon it the more we have learned to admire its simplicity, its dignity, its power, its happy turns of expression, its general accuracy, and, we must not fail to add, the music of its cadences, and the felicities of its rhythm. To render a work that had reached this high standard of excellence still more excellent, to increase its fidelity without destroying its charm, was the task committed to us. Of that task, and of the conditions under which we have attempted its fulfilment, it will now be necessary for us to speak.

II. The present Revision had its origin in action taken by the Convocation of the Province of Canterbury in February 1870, and it has been conducted throughout on the plan laid down in Resolutions of both Houses of the Province, and, more particularly, in accordance with Principles and Rules drawn up by a special Committee of Convocation in the following May. Two Companies, the one for the revision of the Authorised Version of the Old Testament, and the other for the revision of the same Version of the New Testament, were formed in the manner specified in the Resolutions, and the work was commenced on the twenty-second day of June 1870. Shortly afterwards, steps were taken, under a resolution passed by both Houses of Convocation, for inviting the co-operation of American scholars; and eventually two Committees were formed in America, for the purpose of acting with the two English Companies, on the basis of the Principles and Rules drawn up by the Committee of Convocation.

The fundamental Resolutions adopted by the Convocation of Canterbury on the third and fifth days of May 1870 were as follows:—

‘1. That it is desirable that a revision of the Authorised Version of the Holy Scriptures be undertaken.

‘2. That the revision be so conducted as to comprise both marginal renderings and such emendations as it may be found necessary to insert in the text of the Authorised Version.

‘3. That in the above resolutions we do not contemplate any new translation of the Bible, or any alteration of the language, except where in the judgement of the most competent scholars such change is necessary.

‘4. That in such necessary changes, the style of the language employed in the existing Version be closely followed.

‘5. That it is desirable that Convocation should nominate a body of its own members to undertake the work of revision, who shall be at liberty to invite the co-operation of any eminent for scholarship, to whatever nation or religious body they may belong.’

The Principles and Rules agreed to by the Committee of Convocation on the twenty-fifth day of May 1870 were as follows:—

‘1. To introduce as few alterations as possible into the Text of the Authorised Version consistently with faithfulness.

‘2. To limit, as far as possible, the expression of such alterations to the language of the Authorised and earlier English Versions.

‘3. Each Company to go twice over the portion to be revised, once provisionally, the second time finally, and on principles of voting as hereinafter is provided.

‘4. That the Text to be adopted be that for which the evidence is decidedly preponderating; and that when the Text so adopted differs from that from which the Authorised Version was made, the alteration be indicated in the margin.

‘5. To make or retain no change in the Text on the second final revision by each Company, except two thirds of those present approve of the same, but on the first revision to decide by simple majorities.

‘6. In every case of proposed alteration that may have given rise to discussion, to defer the voting thereupon till the next Meeting, whensoever the same shall be required by one third of those present at the meeting, such intended vote to be announced in the notice for the next Meeting.

‘7. To revise the headings of chapters and pages, paragraphs, italics, and punctuation.

‘8. To refer, on the part of each Company, when considered desirable, to Divines, Scholars, and Literary Men, whether at home or abroad, for their opinions.’

These rules it has been our endeavour faithfully and consistently to follow. One only of them we found ourselves unable to observe in all particulars. In accordance with the seventh rule, we have carefully revised the paragraphs, italics, and punctuation. But the revision of the headings of chapters and pages would have involved so much of indirect, and indeed frequently of direct interpretation, that we judged it best to omit them altogether.

Our communications with the American Committee have been of the following nature. We transmitted to them from time to time each several portion of our First Revision, and received from them in return their criticisms and suggestions. These we considered with much care and attention during the time we were engaged on our Second Revision. We then sent over to them the various portions of the Second Revision as they were completed, and received further suggestions, which, like the former, were closely and carefully considered. Last of all, we forwarded to them the Revised Version in its final form; and a list of those passages in which they desire to place on record their preference of other readings and renderings will be found at the end of the volume. We gratefully acknowledge their care, vigilance, and accuracy; and we humbly pray that their labours and our own, thus happily united, may be permitted to bear a blessing to both countries, and to all English-speaking people throughout the world.

The whole time devoted to the work has been ten years and a half. The First Revision occupied about six years; the Second, about two years and a half. The remaining time has been spent in the consideration of the suggestions from America on the Second Revision, and of many details and reserved questions arising out of our own labours. As a rule, a session of four days has been held every month (with the exception of August and September) in each year from the commencement of the work in June 1870. The average attendance for the whole time has been sixteen each day; the whole Company consisting at first of twenty-seven, but for the greater part of the time of twenty-four members, many of them residing at great distances from London. Of the original number four have been removed from us by death.

At an early stage in our labours, we entered into an agreement with the Universities of Oxford and Cambridge for the conveyance to them of our copyright in the work. This arrangement provided for the necessary expenses of the undertaking; and procured for the Revised Version the advantage of being published by Bodies long connected with the publication of the Authorised Version.

III. We now pass onward to give a brief account of the particulars of the present work. This we propose to do under the four heads of Text, Translation, Language, and Marginal Notes.

1. A revision of the Greek text was the necessary foundation of our work; but it did not fall within our province to construct a continuous and complete Greek text. In many cases the English rendering was considered to represent correctly either of two competing readings in the Greek, and then the question of the text was usually not raised. A sufficiently laborious task remained in deciding between the rival claims of various readings which might properly affect the translation. When these were adjusted, our deviations from the text presumed to underlie the Authorised Version had next to be indicated, in accordance with the fourth rule; but it proved inconvenient to record them in the margin. A better mode however of giving them publicity has been found, as the University Presses have undertaken to print them in connection with complete Greek texts of the New Testament.

In regard of the readings thus approved, it may be observed that the fourth rule, by requiring that 'the text to be adopted' should be 'that for which the evidence is decidedly preponderating,' was in effect an instruction to follow the authority of documentary evidence without deference to any printed text of modern times, and therefore to employ the best resources of criticism for estimating the value of evidence. Textual criticism, as applied to the Greek New Testament, forms a special study of much intricacy and difficulty, and even now leaves room for considerable variety of opinion among competent critics. Different schools of criticism have been represented among us, and have together contributed to the final result. In the early part of the work every various reading requiring consideration was discussed and voted on by the Company. After a time the precedents thus established enabled the process to be safely shortened; but it was still at the option of every one to raise a full discussion on any particular reading, and the option was freely used. On the first revision, in accordance with the fifth rule, the decisions were arrived at by simple majorities. On the second revision, at which a majority of two thirds was required to retain or introduce a reading at variance with the reading presumed to underlie the Authorised Version, many readings previously adopted were brought again into debate, and either re-affirmed or set aside.

Many places still remain in which, for the present, it would not be safe to accept one reading to the absolute exclusion of others. In these cases we have given alternative readings in the margin, wherever they seem to be of sufficient importance or interest to deserve notice. In the introductory formula, the phrases 'many ancient authorities,' 'some ancient authorities,' are used with some latitude to denote a greater or lesser proportion of those authorities which have a distinctive right to be called ancient. These ancient authorities comprise not only Greek manuscripts, some of which were written in the fourth and fifth centuries, but versions of a still earlier date in different languages, and also quotations by Christian writers of the second and following centuries.

2. We pass now from the Text to the Translation. The character of the Revision was determined for us from the outset by the first rule, 'to introduce as few alterations as possible, consistently with faithfulness.' Our task was revision, not re-translation.

In the application however of this principle to the many and intricate details of our work, we have found ourselves constrained by faithfulness to introduce changes which might not at first sight appear to be included under the rule.

The alterations which we have made in the Authorised Version may be roughly grouped in five principal classes. First, alterations positively required by change of reading in the Greek Text. Secondly, alterations made where the Authorised Version appeared either to be incorrect, or to have chosen the less probable of two possible renderings. Thirdly, alterations of obscure or ambiguous renderings into such as are clear and express in their import. For it has been our principle not to leave any translation, or any arrangement of words, which could adapt itself to one or other of two interpretations, but rather to express as plainly as was possible that interpretation which seemed best to deserve a place in the text, and to put the other in the margin.

There remain yet two other classes of alterations which we have felt to be required by the same principle of faithfulness. These are, —Fourthly, alterations of the Authorised Version in cases where it was inconsistent with itself in the rendering of two or more passages confessedly alike or parallel. Fifthly, alterations rendered necessary by consequence, that is, arising out of changes already made, though not in themselves required by the general rule of faithfulness. Both these classes of alterations call for some further explanation.

The frequent inconsistencies in the Authorised Version have caused us much embarrassment from the fact already referred to, namely, that a studied variety of rendering, even in the same chapter and context, was a kind of principle with our predecessors, and was defended by them on grounds that have been mentioned above. The problem we had to solve was to discriminate between varieties of rendering which were compatible with fidelity to the true meaning of the text, and varieties which involved inconsistency, and were suggestive of differences that had no existence in the Greek. This problem we have solved to the best of our power, and for the most part in the following way.

Where there was a doubt as to the exact shade of meaning, we have looked to the context for guidance. If the meaning was fairly expressed by the word or phrase that was before us in the Authorised Version, we made no change, even where rigid adherence to the rule of translating, as far as possible, the same Greek word by the same English word might have prescribed some modification.

There are however numerous passages in the Authorised Version in which, whether regard be had to the recurrence (as in the first three Gospels) of identical clauses and sentences, to the repetition of the same word in the same passage, or to the characteristic use of particular words by the same writer, the studied variety adopted by the Translators of 1611 has produced a degree of inconsistency that cannot be reconciled with the principle of faithfulness. In such cases we have not hesitated to introduce alterations, even though the sense might not seem to the general reader to be materially affected.

The last class of alterations is that which we have described as rendered necessary by consequence; that is, by reason of some foregoing alteration. The cases in which these consequential changes have been found necessary are numerous and of very different kinds. Sometimes the change has been made to avoid tautology; sometimes to obviate an unpleasing alliteration or some other infelicity of sound; sometimes, in the case of smaller words, to preserve the familiar rhythm; sometimes for a convergence of reasons which, when explained, would at once be accepted, but until so explained might never be surmised even by intelligent readers.

This may be made plain by an example. When a particular word is found to recur with characteristic frequency in any one of the Sacred Writers, it is obviously desirable to adopt for it some uniform rendering. Again, where, as in the case of the first three Evangelists, precisely the same clauses or sentences are found in more than one of the Gospels, it is no less necessary to translate them in every place in the same way. These two principles may be illustrated by reference to a word that perpetually recurs in St. Mark's Gospel, and that may be translated either 'straightway,' 'forthwith,' or 'immediately.' Let it be supposed that the first rendering is chosen, and that the word, in accordance with the first of the above principles, is in that Gospel uniformly translated 'straightway.' Let it be further supposed that one of the passages of St. Mark in which it is so translated is found, word for word, in one of the other Gospels, but that there the rendering of the Authorised Version happens to be 'forthwith' or 'immediately.' That rendering must be changed on the second of the above principles; and yet such a change would not have been made but for this concurrence of two sound principles, and the consequent necessity of making a change on grounds extraneous to the passage itself.

This is but one of many instances of consequential alterations which might at first sight appear unnecessary, but which nevertheless have been deliberately made, and are not at variance with the rule of introducing as few changes in the Authorised Version as faithfulness would allow.

There are some other points of detail which it may be here convenient to notice. One of these, and perhaps the most important, is the rendering of the Greek aorist. There are numerous cases, especially in connexion with particles ordinarily expressive of present time, in which the use of the indefinite past tense in Greek and English is altogether different; and in such instances we have not attempted to violate the idiom of our language by forms of expression which it could not bear. But we have often ventured to represent the Greek aorist by the English preterite, even where the reader may find some passing difficulty in such a rendering, because we have felt convinced that the true meaning of the original was obscured by the presence of the familiar auxiliary. A remarkable illustration may be found in the seventeenth chapter of St. John's Gospel, where the combination of the aorist and the perfect shews, beyond all reasonable doubt, that different relations of time were intended to be expressed.

Changes of translation will also be found in connexion with the aorist participle, arising from the fact that the usual periphrasis of this participle in the Vulgate, which was rendered necessary by Latin idiom, has been largely reproduced in the Authorised Version by 'when' with the past tense (as for example in the second chapter of St. Matthew's Gospel), even where the ordinary participial rendering would have been easier and more natural in English.

In reference to the perfect and the imperfect tenses but little needs to be said. The correct translation of the former has been for the most part, though with some striking exceptions, maintained in the Authorised Version: while with regard to the imperfect, clear as its meaning may be in the Greek, the power of expressing it is so limited in English, that we have been frequently compelled to leave the force of the tense to be inferred from the context. In a few instances, where faithfulness imperatively required it, and especially where, in the Greek, the significance of the imperfect tense seemed to be additionally marked by the use of the participle with the auxiliary verb, we have introduced the corresponding form in English. Still, in the great majority of cases we have been obliged to retain the English preterite, and to rely either on slight changes in the order of the words, or on prominence given to the accompanying temporal particles, for the indication of the meaning which, in the Greek, the imperfect tense was designed to convey.

On other points of grammar it may be sufficient to speak more briefly.

Many changes, as might be anticipated, have been made in the case of the definite article. Here again it was necessary to consider the peculiarities of English idiom, as well as the general tenor of each passage. Sometimes we have felt it enough to prefix the article to the first of a series of words to all of which it is prefixed in the Greek, and thus, as it were, to impart the idea of definiteness to the whole series, without running the risk of overloading the sentence. Sometimes, conversely, we have had to tolerate the presence of the definite article in our Version, when it is absent from the Greek, and perhaps not even grammatically latent; simply because English idiom would not allow the noun to stand alone, and because the introduction of the indefinite article might have introduced an idea of oneness or individuality, which was not in any degree traceable in the original. In a word, we have been careful to observe the use of the article wherever it seemed to be idiomatically possible: where it did not seem to be possible, we have yielded to necessity.

As to the pronouns and the place they occupy in the sentence, a subject often overlooked by our predecessors, we have been particularly careful; but here again we have frequently been baffled by structural or idiomatical peculiarities of the English language which precluded changes otherwise desirable.

In the case of the particles we have met with less difficulty, and have been able to maintain a reasonable amount of consistency. The particles in the Greek Testament are, as is well known, comparatively few, and they are commonly used with precision. It has therefore been the more necessary here to preserve a general uniformity of rendering, especially in the case of the particles of causality and inference, so far as English idiom would allow.

Lastly, many changes have been introduced in the rendering of the prepositions, especially where ideas of instrumentality or of mediate agency, distinctly marked in the original, have been confused or obscured in the translation. We have however borne in mind the comprehensive character of such prepositions as 'of' and 'by,' the one in reference to agency and the other in reference to means, especially in the English of the seventeenth century; and have rarely made any change where the true meaning of the original as expressed in the Authorised Version would be apparent to a reader of ordinary intelligence.

3. We now come to the subject of Language.

The second of the rules, by which the work has been governed, prescribed that the alterations to be introduced should be expressed, as far as possible, in the language of the Authorised Version or of the Versions that preceded it.

To this rule we have faithfully adhered. We have habitually consulted the earlier Versions; and in our sparing introduction of words not found in them or in the Authorised Version we have usually satisfied ourselves that such words were employed by standard writers of nearly the same date, and had also that general hue which justified their introduction into a Version which has held the highest place in the classical literature of our language. We have never removed any archaisms, whether in structure or in words, except where we were persuaded either that the meaning of the words was not generally understood, or that the nature of the expression led to some misconception of the true sense of the passage. The frequent inversions of the strict order of the words, which add much to the strength and variety of the Authorised Version, and give an archaic colour to many felicities of diction, have been seldom modified. Indeed, we have often adopted the same arrangement in our own alterations; and in this, as in other particulars, we have sought to assimilate the new work to the old.

In a few exceptional cases we have failed to find any word in the older stratum of our language that appeared to convey the precise meaning of the original. There, and there only, we have used words of a later date; but not without having first assured ourselves that they are to be found in the writings of the best authors of the period to which they belong.

In regard of Proper Names no rule was prescribed to us. In the case of names of frequent occurrence we have deemed it best to follow generally the rule laid down for our predecessors. That rule, it may be remembered, was to this effect, 'The names of the prophets and the holy writers, with the other names of the text, to be retained, as nigh as may be, accordingly as they were vulgarly used.' Some difficulty has been felt in dealing with names less familiarly known. Here our general practice has been to follow the Greek form of names, except in the case of persons and places mentioned in the Old Testament: in this case we have followed the Hebrew.

4. The subject of the Marginal Notes deserves special attention. They represent the results of a large amount of careful and elaborate discussion, and will, perhaps, by their very presence, indicate to some extent the intricacy of many of the questions that have almost daily come before us for decision. These Notes fall into four main groups: first, notes specifying such differences of reading as were judged to be of sufficient importance to require a particular notice; secondly, notes indicating the exact rendering of words to which, for the sake of English idiom, we were obliged to give a less exact rendering in the text; thirdly, notes, very few in number, affording some explanation which the original appeared to require; fourthly, alternative renderings in difficult or debateable passages. The notes of this last group are numerous, and largely in excess of those which were admitted by our predecessors. In the 270 years that have passed away since their labours were concluded, the Sacred Text has been minutely examined, discussed in every detail, and analysed with a grammatical precision unknown in the days of the last Revision. There has thus been accumulated a large amount of materials that have prepared the way for different renderings, which necessarily came under discussion. We have therefore placed before the reader in the margin other renderings than those which were adopted in the text, wherever such renderings seemed to deserve consideration. The rendering in the text, where it agrees with the Authorised Version, was supported by at least one third, and, where it differs from the Authorised Version, by at least two thirds of those who were present at the second revision of the passage in question.

A few supplementary matters have yet to be mentioned. These may be thus enumerated,—the use of Italics, the arrangement in Paragraphs, the mode of printing Quotations from the Poetical Books of the Old Testament, the Punctuation, and, last of all, the Titles of the different Books that make up the New Testament,—all of them particulars on which it seems desirable to add a few explanatory remarks.

(a) The determination, in each place, of the words to be printed in italics has not been by any means easy; nor can we hope to be found in all cases perfectly consistent. In the earliest editions of the Authorised Version the use of a different type to indicate supplementary words not contained in the original was not very frequent, and cannot easily be reconciled with any settled principle. A review of the words so printed was made, after a lapse of some years, for the editions of the Authorised Version published at Cambridge in 1629 and 1638. Further, though slight, modifications were introduced at intervals between 1638 and the more systematic revisions undertaken respectively by Dr. Paris in the Cambridge Edition of 1762, and by Dr. Blayney in the Oxford Edition of 1769. None of them however rest on any higher authority than that of the persons who from time to time superintended the publication. The last attempt to bring the use of italics into uniformity and consistency was made by Dr. Scrivener in the Paragraph Bible published at Cambridge in 1870–73. In succeeding to these labours, we have acted on the general principle of printing in italics words which did not appear to be necessarily involved in the Greek. Our tendency has been to diminish rather than to increase the amount of italic printing; though, in the case of difference of readings, we have usually marked the absence of any words in the original which the sense might nevertheless require to be present in the Version; and again, in the case of inserted pronouns, where the reference did not appear to be perfectly certain, we have similarly had recourse to italics. Some of these cases, especially when there are slight differences of reading, are of singular intricacy, and make it impossible to maintain rigid uniformity.

(b) We have arranged the Sacred Text in paragraphs, after the precedent of the earliest English Versions, so as to assist the general reader in following the current of narrative or argument. The present arrangement will be found, we trust, to have preserved the due mean between a system of long portions which must often include several separate topics, and a system of frequent breaks which, though they may correctly indicate the separate movements of thought in the writer, often seriously impede a just perception of the true continuity of the passage. The traditional division into chapters, which the Authorised Version inherited from Latin Bibles of the later middle ages, is an illustration of the former method. These paragraphs, for such in fact they are, frequently include several distinct subjects. Moreover they sometimes, though rarely, end where there is no sufficient break in the sense. The division of chapters into verses, which was introduced into the New Testament for the first time in 1551, is an exaggeration of the latter method, with its accompanying inconveniences. The serious obstacles to the right understanding of Holy Scripture, which are interposed by minute subdivision, are often overlooked; but if any one will consider for a moment the injurious effect that would be produced by breaking up a portion of some great standard work into separate verses, he will at once perceive how necessary has been an alteration in this particular. The arrangement by chapters and verses undoubtedly affords facilities for reference: but this advantage we have been able to retain by placing the numerals on the inside margin of each page.

(c) A few words will suffice as to the mode of printing quotations from the Poetical Books of the Old Testament. 'Wherever the quotation extends to two or more lines, our practice has been to recognise the parallelism of their structure by arranging the lines in a manner that appears to agree with the metrical divisions of the Hebrew original. Such an arrangement will be found helpful to the reader; not only as directing his attention to the poetical character of the quotation, but as also tending to make its force and pertinence more fully felt. We have treated in the same way the hymns in the first two chapters of the Gospel according to St. Luke.

(d) Great care has been bestowed on the punctuation. Our practice has been to maintain what is sometimes called the heavier system of stopping, or, in other words, that system which, especially for convenience in reading aloud, suggests such pauses as will best ensure a clear and intelligent setting forth of the true meaning of the words. This course has rendered necessary, especially in the Epistles, a larger use of colons and semicolons than is customary in modern English printing.

(e) We may in the last place notice one particular to which we were not expressly directed to extend our revision, namely, the titles of the Books of the New Testament. These titles are no part of the original text; and the titles found in the most ancient manuscripts are of too short a form to be convenient for use. Under these circumstances, we have deemed it best to leave unchanged the titles which are given in the Authorised Version as printed in 1611.

We now conclude, humbly commending our labours to Almighty God, and praying that his favour and blessing may be vouchsafed to that which has been done in his name. We recognised from the first the responsibility of the undertaking; and through our manifold experience of its abounding difficulties we have felt more and more, as we went onward, that such a work can never be accomplished by organised efforts of scholarship and criticism, unless assisted by Divine help.

We know full well that defects must have their place in a work so long and so arduous as this which has now come to an end. Blemishes and imperfections there are in the noble Translation which we have been called upon to revise; blemishes and imperfections will assuredly be found in our own Revision. All endeavours to translate the Holy Scriptures into another tongue must fall short of their aim, when the obligation is imposed of producing a Version that shall be alike literal and idiomatic, faithful to each thought of the original, and yet, in the expression of it, harmonious and free. While we dare to hope that in places not a few of the New Testament the introduction of slight changes has cast a new light upon much that was difficult and obscure, we cannot forget how often we have failed in expressing some finer shade of meaning which we recognised in the original, how often idiom has stood in the way of a perfect rendering, and how often the attempt to preserve a familiar form of words, or even a familiar cadence, has only added another perplexity to those which already beset us.

Thus, in the review of the work which we have been permitted to complete, our closing words must be words of mingled thanksgiving, humility, and prayer. Of thanksgiving, for the many blessings vouchsafed to us throughout the unbroken progress of our corporate labours; of humility, for our failings and imperfections in the fulfilment of our task; and of prayer to Almighty God, that the Gospel of our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ may be more clearly and more freshly shewn forth to all who shall be readers of this Book.

DIACRITICAL MARKS AND FOOT-NOTES EXPLAINED.

I. What is Retained of the Authorized Version.

(a) IN THE TEXT.

1. Words not underlined comprise all that is retained of the A. V. Text.
2. A plain and dotted parallel (— ···) marks a rendering taken from the A. V. Margin.

(b) IN THE MARGIN.

3. Alternative renderings not underlined are either repeated from the Text or retained from the A. V. Margin
4. A dotted and plain parallel (··· —) marks a rendering taken from the A. V. Text.

II. Renderings Introduced by the Revisers.

5. A plain line (——), in text or margin, marks a substituted rendering based on the Received Greek text.
6. A plain parallel (====), in text or margin, marks a rendering of a substituted reading of the Critical Greek text which underlies the Revision.
7. A dotted line (·····), in text or margin, marks: (1) an added rendering from the Received Greek text; (2) all revisionally supplied words (Italic in the text, Roman in the margin) that are not substitutional.
8. A dotted parallel (··· ···), in text or margin, marks a rendering of an added reading of the Critical Greek text.

III. Simple Exclusion.—Transposition.—Transference.

9. A curve before a chapter or a verse numeral denotes exclusion without substitution: from a chapter, the exclusion of some verse or verses; from a verse, the exclusion of some word or words.
10. A curve after a verse numeral denotes the occurrence, in the verse, of a transposition of some words retained from the Authorized Version.
11. The Asterisk (*) or the Dagger (†) before a verse numeral:—the former marks a verse which has received, the latter a verse which has lost, some A. V. word or words by transference.

IV. The "A. V." Foot-notes: Words Cancelled by the Revisers.

N. B.—All words of the Text of the Authorized Version which are not retained in THE TEXT of the Revision, AND NO OTHER, appear (chapter and verse being given) in the "A. V." Foot-notes. •

12. Words not inclosed are those for which substituted renderings, marked always with the plain line, appear in the Text.
13. A parenthesis—()—incloses whatever has nothing substituted for it in the Revision. This mark is not applied to words cancelled on critical grounds.
14. Upright dashes—|—inclose renderings which are based on substituted spurious readings of the Received Greek text.
15. Brackets—[]—inclose renderings based on added spurious readings of the Received Greek text.
16. Upright parallels—||—inclose renderings retained in the Revision Margin.

THE GOSPEL

ACCORDING TO

S. M A R K.

1 ¹ THE beginning of the gospel of Jesus Christ, ¹ the Son of God.

(2) Even as it is written ² in Isaiah the prophet,
Behold, I send my messenger before thy face,
Who shall prepare thy way,

3 "The voice of one crying in the wilderness,
Make ye ready the way of the Lord,
Make his paths straight;

(4) "John came, who baptized in the wilderness and preached
(5) the baptism of repentance unto remission of sins. "And there went out unto him all the country of Judæa, and all they of Jerusalem, and they were baptized of him in
(6) the river Jordan, confessing their sins. "And John was clothed with camel's hair, and had a leathern girdle about
(7) his loins, and did eat locusts and wild honey. "And he preached, saying, There cometh after me he that is mightier than I, the latchet of whose shoes I am not
(8) ³ worthy to stoop down and unloose. "I baptized you ⁴ with water, but he shall baptize you ⁴ with the ⁵ Holy Ghost.

9 And it came to pass in those days, that Jesus came from Nazareth of Galilee, and was baptized of John ⁶ in the 10 Jordan. "And straightway coming up out of the water, he saw the heavens rent asunder, and the Spirit as a dove (11) descending upon him : "and a voice came out of the heavens, Thou art my beloved Son, in thee I am well pleased.

12 And straightway the Spirit driveth him forth into the (13 wilderness. "And he was in the wilderness forty days tempted of Satan , and he was with the wild beasts ; and the angels ministered unto him.

(14 Now after that John was delivered up, Jesus came into 15 Galilee, preaching the gospel of God, "and saying, The time is fulfilled, and the kingdom of God is at hand :
repent ye, and believe in the gospel.

16 And passing along by the sea of Galilee, he saw Simon and Andrew the brother of Simon casting a net in the 17 sea : for they were fishers. "And Jesus said unto them,
Come ye after me, and I will make you to become fishers (18 of men. "And straightway they left the nets, and fol-(19 lowed him. "And going on a little further, he saw James the son of Zebedee, and John his brother, who also were 20 in the boat mending the nets. "And straightway he called them : and they left their father Zebedee in the boat with the hired servants, and went after him.

21 And they go into Capernaum , and straightway on the sabbath day he entered into the synagogue and taught.
22 "And they were astonished at his teaching : for he taught 23 them as having authority, and not as the scribes. "And straightway there was in their synagogue a man with an (24 unclean spirit , and he cried out, "saying, What have we to do with thee, thou Jesus of Nazareth ? art thou come to destroy us ? I know thee who thou art, the Holy One 25 of God. "And Jesus rebuked ¹him, saying, Hold thy (26 peace, and come out of him. "And the unclean spirit, questioned among themselves, saying, What is this? a new teaching! with authority he commandeth even the (28) unclean spirits, and they obey him. "And the report of him went out straightway everywhere into all the region of Galilee round about.

(29) And straightway, ²when they were come out of the synagogue, they came into the house of Simon and (30) Andrew, with James and John. "Now Simon's wife's mother lay sick of a fever; and straightway they tell him (31) of her "and he came and took her by the hand, and raised her up, and the fever left her, and she ministered unto them.

(32) And at even, when the sun did set, they brought unto him all that were sick, and them that were ³possessed with (33) devils. "And all the city was gathered together at the (34) door. "And he healed many that were sick with divers diseases, and cast out many ⁴devils, and he suffered not the ⁴devils to speak, because they knew him.⁵

(35) And in the morning, a great while before day, he rose up and went out, and departed into a desert place, and
(36) there prayed. "And Simon and they that were with him
(37) followed after him, "and they found him, and say unto (38) him, All are seeking thee. "And he saith unto them, Let us go elsewhere into the next towns, that I may preach (39) there also; for to this end came I forth. "And he went into their synagogues throughout all Galilee, preaching and casting out ⁴devils.

straightway the leprosy departed from him, and he was 43 made clean. "And he ¹strictly charged him, and straight-44 way sent him out, "and saith unto him, See thou say nothing to any man: but go thy way, shew thyself to the priest, and offer for thy cleansing the things which Moses 45 commanded, for a testimony unto them. "But he went out, and began to publish it much, and to spread abroad the ²matter, insomuch that ³Jesus could no more openly enter into ⁴a city, but was without in desert places: and they came to him from every quarter.
- 2(1) And when he entered again into Capernaum after some
 (2) days, it was noised that he was ⁵in the house. "And many were gathered together, so that there was no longer room for them, no, not even about the door: and
 (3) he spake the word unto them. "And they come, bringing 4 unto him a man sick of the palsy, borne of four. "And when they could not ⁶come nigh unto him for the crowd, they uncovered the roof where he was: and when they had broken it up, they let down the bed whereon the sick
 (5) of the palsy lay. "And Jesus seeing their faith saith unto

- 13 And he went forth again by the sea side, and all the
- 14 multitude resorted unto him, and he taught them. "And as he passed by, he saw Levi the son of Alphæus sitting at the place of toll, and he saith unto him, Follow me.
- (15) And he arose and followed him. "And it came to pass, that he was sitting at meat in his house, and many ²publicans and sinners sat down with Jesus and his disciples:

23) And it came to pass, that he was going on the sabbath day through the cornfields, and his disciples ²began, as 24 they went, to pluck the ears of corn. "And the Pharisees said unto him, Behold, why do they on the sabbath day

 Galilee, the Galilæans received him, having seen all the things that he did in Jerusalem at the feast : for they also went unto the feast.

(46) He came therefore again unto Cana of Galilee, where he made the water wine. And there was a certain ¹noble-

¹⁰ from the dead. "But the chief priests took counsel that ¹¹ they might put Lazarus also to death, "because that by reason of him many of the Jews went away, and believed on Jesus.

¹² On the morrow ¹a great multitude that had come to the feast, when they heard that Jesus was coming to Jeru-¹³ salem, "took the branches of the palm trees, and went forth to meet him, and cried out, Hosanna: Blessed is he that cometh in the name of the Lord, even the King ¹⁴ of Israel. "And Jesus, having found a young ass, sat ¹⁵ thereon; as it is written, "Fear not, daughter of Zion: ¹⁶ behold, thy King cometh, sitting on an ass's colt. "These things understood not his disciples at the first: but when Jesus was glorified, then remembered they that these things were written of him, and that they had done these ¹⁷ things unto him. "The multitude therefore that was with him when he called Lazarus out of the tomb, and raised ¹⁸ him from the dead, bare witness. "For this cause also the multitude went and met him, for that they heard that ¹⁹ he had done this sign. "The Pharisees therefore said among themselves, ²Behold how ye prevail nothing: lo, the world is gone after him.

²⁰ Now there were certain Greeks among those that went ²¹ up to worship at the feast: "these therefore came to Philip, which was of Bethsaida of Galilee, and asked him, ²² saying, Sir, we would see Jesus. "Philip cometh and telleth Andrew: Andrew cometh, and Philip, and they ²³ tell Jesus. "And Jesus answereth them, saying, The hour ²⁴ is come, that the Son of man should be glorified. "Verily,

 27 any man serve me, him will the Father honour. "Now is my soul troubled, and what shall I say? Father, save me from this ²hour, But for this cause came I unto 28) this hour. "Father, glorify thy name. There came therefore a voice out of heaven, saying, I have both 29 glorified it, and will glorify it again. "The multitude therefore, that stood by, and heard it, said that it had thundered: others said, An angel hath spoken to him.
 30 "Jesus answered and said, This voice hath not come for 31 my sake, but for your sakes. "Now is ³the judgement of this world: now shall the prince of this world be cast out.
 32 "And I, if I be lifted up ⁴from the earth, will draw all 33 men unto myself. "But this he said, signifying by what 34 manner of death he should die. "The multitude therefore answered him, We have heard out of the law that the Christ abideth for ever: and how sayest thou, The Son of 35 man must be lifted up? who is this Son of man? "Jesus therefore said unto them, Yet a little while is the light ⁵among you. Walk while ye have the light, that darkness overtake you not: and he that walketh in the dark-(36) ness knoweth not whither he goeth. "While ye have the light, believe on the light, that ye may become sons of light.

 7 him, Lord, dost thou wash my feet? "Jesus answered and (23 on another, doubting of whom he spake. "There was at the table reclining in Jesus' bosom one of his disciples, 24 whom Jesus loved. "Simon Peter therefore beckoneth to him, and saith unto him, Tell us who it is of whom he (25 speaketh. "He leaning back, as he was, on Jesus' breast swereth, He it is, for whom I shall dip the sop, and give it him. So when he had dipped the sop, he taketh and 27 giveth it to Judas, the son of Simon Iscariot. "And after the sop, then entered Satan into him. Jesus therefore

33) But they, when they heard this, were cut to the heart, in the council, a Pharisee, named Gamaliel, a doctor of the law, had in honour of all the people, and commanded 35) to put the men forth a little while. "And he said unto them, Ye men of Israel, take heed to yourselves as touch-36 ing these men, what ye are about to do. "For before these days rose up Theudas, giving himself out to be somebody, to whom a number of men, about four hundred, joined themselves: who was slain, and all, as many as obeyed him, were dispersed, and came to nought.

 (37 "After this man rose up Judas of Galilee in the days of the enrolment, and drew away some of the people after him: he also perished, and all, as many as obeyed him,

6 ¹ Now in these days, when the number of the disciples was multiplying, there arose a murmuring of the ¹Grecian Jews against the Hebrews, because their widows were 2 neglected in the daily ministration. "And the twelve called the multitude of the disciples unto them, and said, multitude: and they chose Stephen, a man full of faith and of the Holy Spirit, and Philip, and Prochorus, and Nicanor, and Timon, and Parmenas, and Nicolas a prose-

 when they had prayed, they laid their hands on them.
 7 And the word of God increased, and the number of the disciples multiplied in Jerusalem exceedingly, and a great company of the priests were obedient to the faith.

that spake unto him was departed, he called two of his

the vision which he had seen might mean, behold, the men that were sent by Cornelius, having made inquiry 18 for Simon's house, stood before the gate, "and called and asked whether Simon, which was surnamed Peter, were called Barnabas, ² Jupiter; and Paul, ³ Mercury, because 14 the multitudes. "But when the apostles, Barnabas and Paul, heard of it, they rent their garments, and sprang

 why do ye these things? We also are men of like ⁴ pas-

"And when Paul and Barnabas had no small dissension and questioning with them, the brethren appointed that Paul and Barnabas, and certain other of them, should go up to Jerusalem (3) unto the apostles and elders about this question. "They therefore, being brought on their way by the church, passed through both Phœnicia and Samaria, declaring the conversion of the Gentiles: and they caused great (4) joy unto all the brethren. (6 And the apostles and the elders were gathered together
(7) to consider of this matter. "And when there had been much questioning, Peter rose up, and said unto them,

Brethren, ye know how that ¹a good while ago God made choice among you, that by my mouth the Gentiles 8 should hear the word of the gospel, and believe. "And God, which knoweth the heart, bare them witness, giving 9 them the Holy Ghost, even as he did unto us, "and he made no distinction between us and them, cleansing their 10 hearts by faith. "Now therefore why tempt ye God, that ye should put a yoke upon the neck of the disciples, which
(11) neither our fathers nor we were able to bear? "But we believe that we shall be saved through the grace of the Lord Jesus, in like manner as they.

12 And all the multitude kept silence, and they hearkened unto Barnabas and Paul rehearsing what signs and wonders
(13) God had wrought among the Gentiles by them. "And after they had held their peace, James answered, saying,
(14) Brethren, hearken unto me: "Symeon hath rehearsed how first God did visit the Gentiles, to take out of them

(10) of Tyrannus. "And this continued for the space of two years, so that all they which dwelt in Asia heard the 11 word of the Lord, both Jews and Greeks. "And God (12) wrought special ²miracles by the hands of Paul: "insomuch that unto the sick were carried away from his body handkerchiefs or aprons, and the diseases departed from 13 them, and the evil spirits went out. "But certain also of the strolling Jews, exorcists, took upon them to name over them which had the evil spirits the name of the Lord Jesus, saying, I adjure you by Jesus whom Paul

"And this became known to all, both Jews and Greeks, that dwelt at Ephesus, and fear fell upon them all, and the name of the Lord Jesus (18 was magnified. "Many also of them that had believed (19 came, confessing, and declaring their deeds. "And not a few of them that practised ¹curious arts brought their books together, and burned them in the sight of all: and they counted the price of them, and found it fifty thousand pieces of silver. "So mightily grew the word of the Lord and prevailed.

21 Now after these things were ended, Paul purposed in the spirit, when he had passed through Macedonia and Achaia, to go to Jerusalem, saying, After I have been (22 there, I must also see Rome. "And having sent into Macedonia two of them that ministered unto him, Timothy and Erastus, he himself stayed in Asia for a while.

23 And about that time there arose no small stir concern-24 ing the Way. "For a certain man named Demetrius, a silversmith, which made silver shrines of ²Diana, brought (25 no little business unto the craftsmen, "whom he gathered together, with the workmen of like occupation, and said, Sirs, ye know that by this business we have our wealth. him, and brought him to the chief captain, and saith, Paul the prisoner called me unto him, and asked me to bring this young man unto thee, who hath something to 12 So then, brethren, we are debtors, not to the flesh, to (13) live after the flesh: "for if ye live after the flesh, ye must die, but if by the spirit ye ²mortify the ³deeds of the (14) body, ye shall live. "For as many as are led by the Spirit (15) of God, these are sons of God. "For ye received not the spirit of bondage again unto fear; but ye received the (16) spirit of adoption, whereby we cry, Abba, Father. "The in Christ Jesus, called to be saints, with all that call upon

Father and the Lord Jesus Christ.

4) I thank ²my God always concerning you, for the grace
(5) of God which was given you in Christ Jesus, ¹that in every thing ye were enriched in him, in all ³utterance 6 and all knowledge, ¹even as the testimony of Christ was 7 confirmed in you : ¹so that ye come behind in no gift ;

shall also confirm you unto the end, that ye be unreprove-9 able in the day of our Lord Jesus Christ. ¹God is faithful, through whom ye were called into the fellowship of his Son Jesus Christ our Lord.

10 Now I beseech you, brethren, through the name of our Lord Jesus Christ, that ye all speak the same thing, and that there be no divisions among you, but that ye be perfected together in the same mind and in the same 11 judgement. ¹For it hath been signified unto me concerning you, my brethren, by them which are of the house-

 God that I baptized none of you, save Crispus and Gaius,

 16 name. ⁴And I baptized also the household of Stephanas:
 17 besides, I know not whether I baptized any other. ⁵For Christ sent me not to baptize, but to preach the gospel:
 not in wisdom of words, lest the cross of Christ should be made void.

18 For the word of the cross is to them that are perishing foolishness, but unto us which are being saved it is the 19 power of God. ⁶For it is written,

I will destroy the wisdom of the wise,

And the prudence of the prudent will I reject.

(20 ⁷Where is the wise? where is the scribe? where is the disputer of this ⁸world? hath not God made foolish the 21 wisdom of the world? ⁹For seeing that in the wisdom of God the world through its wisdom knew not God, it was God's good pleasure through the foolishness of the (22 ¹⁰preaching to save them that believe. ¹¹Seeing that Jews (23 ask for signs, and Greeks seek after wisdom: ¹²but we preach ¹³Christ crucified, unto Jews a stumblingblock, and 24 unto Gentiles foolishness, ¹⁴but unto ¹⁵them that are called, both Jews and Greeks, Christ the power of God, and the 25 wisdom of God. ¹⁶Because the foolishness of God is wiser than men, and the weakness of God is stronger than men.

 thou bound unto a wife? seek not to be loosed. Art 28 thou loosed from a wife? seek not a wife. But and if thou marry, thou hast not sinned; and if a virgin marry, she hath not sinned. Yet such shall have tribulation in 29 the flesh: and I would spare you. But this I say, breth-

17 est? "For thou verily givest thanks well, but the other is (18 not ¹edified. "I thank God, I speak with tongues more (19 than you all: "howbeit in the church I had rather speak five words with my understanding, that I might instruct others also, than ten thousand words in a tongue.
 20 Brethren, be not children in mind: howbeit in malice
 21) be ye babes, but in mind be ²men. "In the law it is written, By men of strange tongues and by the lips of strangers will I speak unto this people; and not even thus will 22 they hear me, saith the Lord. "Wherefore tongues are for a sign, not to them that believe, but to the unbelieving: but prophesying is for a sign, not to the unbelieving, 23 but to them that believe. "If therefore the whole church be assembled together, and all speak with tongues, and there come in men unlearned or unbelieving, will they (24 not say that ye are mad? "But if all prophesy, and there come in one unbelieving or unlearned, he is ³reproved by (25) all, he is judged by all; "the secrets of his heart are made manifest, and so he will fall down on his face and worship God, declaring that God is ⁴among you indeed.
 (26) What is it then, brethren? When ye come together, each one hath a psalm, hath a teaching, hath a revelation, hath a tongue, hath an interpretation. Let all (27) things be done unto edifying. "If any man speaketh in a tongue, let it be by two, or at the most three, and that 28 in turn, and let one interpret: "but if there be no interpreter, let him keep silence in the church; and let him 29 speak to himself, and to God. "And let the prophets

 41 another. "There is one glory of the sun, and another glory of the moon, and another glory of the stars; for 42 one star differeth from another star in glory. "So also is the resurrection of the dead. It is sown in corruption, 43 it is raised in incorruption: "it is sown in dishonour; it is raised in glory: it is sown in weakness, it is raised in 44 power: "it is sown a natural body, it is raised a spiritual

THE SECOND EPISTLE OF PAUL THE APOSTLE

CORINTHIANS.

- 1 ¹) PAUL, an apostle of Christ Jesus through the will of God, and Timothy ¹our brother, unto the church of God which is at Corinth, with all the saints which are in the ⁽² whole of Achaia : "Grace to you and peace from God our Father and the Lord Jesus Christ.
- (3 Blessed be the God and Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, the Father of mercies and God of all comfort ,
- 4 "who comforteth us in all our affliction, that we may be able to comfort them that are in any affliction, through the comfort wherewith we ourselves are comforted of God.
- 5 "For as the sufferings of Christ abound unto us, even so
- (6) our comfort also aboundeth through Christ. "But whether we be afflicted, it is for your comfort and salvation , or whether we be comforted, it is for your comfort, which worketh in the patient enduring of the same sufferings
- 7) which we also suffer : "and our hope for you is steadfast ; knowing that, as ye are partakers of the sufferings, so
- (8) also are ye of the comfort. "For we would not have you ignorant, brethren, concerning our affliction which befell us in Asia, that we were weighed down exceedingly, beyond our power, insomuch that we despaired even of life

leadeth us in triumph in Christ, and maketh manifest through us the savour of his knowledge in every place.
 15) ¹For we are a sweet savour of Christ unto God, in them
 16) that are being saved, and in them that are perishing; ¹to the one a savour from death unto death; to the other a savour from life unto life. And who is sufficient for 17) these things? ¹For we are not as the many, ¹corrupting the word of God: but as of sincerity, but as of God, in the sight of God, speak we in Christ.

3(1) Are we beginning again to commend ourselves? or need we, as do some, epistles of commendation to you or 2 from you? ¹Ye are our epistle, written in our hearts,
 (3) known and read of all men; ¹being made manifest that ye are an epistle of Christ, ministered by us, written not with ink, but with the Spirit of the living God; not in 4 tables of stone, but in tables that are hearts of flesh. ¹And such confidence have we through Christ to God-ward: 5 ¹not that we are sufficient of ourselves, to account any thing as from ourselves, but our sufficiency is from God;
 (6) ¹who also made us sufficient as ministers of a new ²covenant, not of the letter, but of the spirit: for the letter
 (7) killeth, but the spirit giveth life. ¹But if the ministration of death, ³written, and engraven on stones, came ⁴with glory, so that the children of Israel could not look sted-

 11 surpasseth. "For if that which ¹passeth away was ²with glory, much more that which remaineth is in glory.
 (12 Having therefore such a hope, we use great boldness
 13) of speech, "and are not as Moses, who put a veil upon his face, that the children of Israel should not look stedfastly

 according to that which is written, I believed, and therefore did I speak, we also believe, and therefore also we 14 speak; "knowing that he which raised up ⁶the Lord Jesus there was the readiness to will, so there may be the comple-

THE EPISTLE OF PAUL

TO THE

GALATIANS.

1 ¹ PAUL, an apostle (not from men, neither through ¹man, but through Jesus Christ, and God the Father, who raised 2 him from the dead), ¹and all the brethren which are with 3 me, unto the churches of Galatia: ¹Grace to you and peace ²from God the Father, and our Lord Jesus Christ, out of this present evil ³world, according to the will of 5 our God and Father: ¹to whom be the glory ⁴for ever and

6 I marvel that ye are so quickly removing from him that trouble you, and would pervert the gospel of Christ.

(8) ¹But though we, or an angel from heaven, should preach
⁵unto you any gospel ⁶other than that which we preached
(9) unto you, let him be anathema. ¹As we have said before, so say I now again, If any man preacheth unto you any gospel other than that which ye received, let him be (10) anathema. ¹For am I now persuading men, or God? or am I seeking to please men? if I were still pleasing men,
I should not be a ⁷servant of Christ.

11) For I make known to you, brethren, as touching the gospel which was preached by me, that it is not after mine own age ¹among my countrymen, being more ex-

 when it was the good pleasure of God, who separated me, even from my mother's womb, and called me through 16 his grace, "to reveal his Son in me, that I might preach him among the Gentiles, immediately I conferred not 17) with flesh and blood : "neither went I up to Jerusalem to them which were apostles before me : but I went away

the inheritance is of the law, it is no more of promise:

 11 his judgement, whosoever he be. "But I, brethren, if I still preach circumcision, why am I still persecuted? then 12) hath the stumblingblock of the cross been done away. "I would that they which unsettle you would even ¹cut themselves off.

13) For ye, brethren, were called for freedom ; only use not your freedom for an occasion to the flesh, but through 14 love be servants one to another. "For the whole law is fulfilled in one word, even in this, Thou shalt love thy 15 neighbour as thyself. "But if ye bite and devour one another, take heed that ye be not consumed one of another.

(16 But I say, Walk by the Spirit, and ye shall not fulfil the (17 lust of the flesh. "For the flesh lusteth against the Spirit, and the Spirit against the flesh ; for these are contrary the one to the other, that ye may not do the things
 18 that ye would. "But if ye are led by the Spirit, ye are (19 not under the law. "Now the works of the flesh are manifest, which are these, fornication, uncleanness, lasciviousness, "idolatry, sorcery, enmities, strife, jealousies, 20 wraths, factions, divisions, ²heresies, "envyings, drunkenness, revellings, and such like : of the which I ³forewarn you, even as I did ³forewarn you, that they which practise 22 such things shall not inherit the kingdom of God. "But the fruit of the Spirit is love, joy, peace, longsuffer-23 ing, kindness, goodness, faithfulness, "meekness, ⁴temper-24 ance : against such there is no law. "And they that are of Christ Jesus have crucified the flesh with the passions and the lusts thereof.

6 1 Brethren, even if a man be overtaken in any trespass, ye which are spiritual, restore such a one in a spirit of meekness, looking to thyself, lest thou also be tempted.
 2 "Bear ye one another's burdens, and so fulfil the law of 3 Christ. "For if a man thinketh himself to be something,
 4 when he is nothing, he deceiveth himself. "But let each man prove his own work, and then shall he have his glorying in regard of himself alone, and not of ¹his neighbour.
 5 "For each man shall bear his own ²burden.
 6 But let him that is taught in the word communicate
 7 unto him that teacheth in all good things. "Be not deceived, God is not mocked: for whatsoever a man

THE EPISTLE OF PAUL THE APOSTLE

TO THE

PHILIPPIANS.

1 (1) PAUL and Timothy, ¹servants of Christ Jesus, to all the saints in Christ Jesus which are at Philippi, with
(2) the ²bishops and deacons: "Grace to you and peace from God our Father and the Lord Jesus Christ.

3 I thank my God upon all my remembrance of you,
4 "always in every supplication of mine on behalf of you all 5 making my supplication with joy, "for your fellowship in furtherance of the gospel from the first day until now , 6 "being confident of this very thing, that he which began a good work in you will perfect it until the day of Jesus 7 Christ: "even as it is right for me to be thus minded on behalf of you all, because ³I have you in my heart, inasmuch as, both in my bonds and in the defence and confirmation of the gospel, ye all are partakers with me of
(8) grace. "For God is my witness, how I long after you all
(9) in the tender mercies of Christ Jesus. "And this I pray, that your love may abound yet more and more in knowl-10 edge and all discernment; "so that ye may ⁴approve the things that are excellent; that ye may be sincere and 11 void of offence unto the day of Christ; "being filled with the ⁵fruits of righteousness, which are through Jesus Christ, unto the glory and praise of God.

12 Now I would have you know, brethren, that the things which happened unto me have fallen out rather unto the (13) progress of the gospel; "so that my bonds became mani-

 other proclaim Christ of faction, not sincerely, thinking (18) to raise up affliction for me in my bonds. "What then?
only that in every way, whether in pretence or in truth, Christ is proclaimed; and therein I rejoice, yea, and will 19 rejoice. "For I know that this shall turn to my salvation, through your supplication and the supply of the Spirit of (20) Jesus Christ, "according to my earnest expectation and hope, that in nothing shall I be put to shame, but that with all boldness, as always, so now also Christ shall be 21 magnified in my body, whether by life, or by death. "For 22 to me to live is Christ, and to die is gain. ⁴ But if to live in the flesh,—if this is the fruit of my work, then (23) ⁵ what I shall choose ⁶ I wot not. "But I am in a strait betwixt the two, having the desire to depart and be with 25 is more needful for your sake. "And having this confidence, I know that I shall abide, yea, and abide with you (26) all, for your progress and joy ⁷ in the faith, "that your glorying may abound in Christ Jesus in me through my

THE FIRST EPISTLE OF PAUL THE APOSTLE

TO THE

THESSALONIANS.

1(1) PAUL, and Silvanus, and Timothy, unto the church of the Thessalonians in God the Father and the Lord Jesus Christ: Grace to you and peace.

2 We give thanks to God always for you all, making
3) mention of you in our prayers, "remembering without ceasing your work of faith and labour of love and patience of hope in our Lord Jesus Christ, before our God and
4) Father, "knowing, brethren beloved of God, your election, "1 how that our gospel came not unto you in word only, but also in power, and in the 2 Holy Ghost, and in much 3 assurance; even as ye know what manner of men
6 we shewed ourselves toward you for your sake. "And ye became imitators of us, and of the Lord, having received the word in much affliction, with joy of the 2 Holy Ghost;
7 "so that ye became an ensample to all that believe in
8 Macedonia and in Achaia. "For from you hath sounded forth the word of the Lord, not only in Macedonia and Achaia, but in every place your faith to God-ward is gone forth, so that we need not to speak any thing. "For they themselves report concerning us what manner of entering in we had unto you, and how ye turned unto God
10 from idols, to serve a living and true God, "and to wait for his Son from heaven, whom he raised from the dead, even Jesus, which delivereth us from the wrath to come.

 4) "but even as we have been approved of God to be in-trusted with the gospel, so we speak, not as pleasing
 5 men, but God which proveth our hearts. "For neither at any time were we found using words of flattery, as ye
 (6) know, nor a cloke of covetousness, God is witness, "nor seeking glory of men, neither from you, nor from others, when we might have ¹been burdensome, as apostles of 7 Christ. "But we were ²gentle in the midst of you, as

(3) As I exhorted thee to tarry at Ephesus, when I was going into Macedonia, that thou mightest charge certain 4 men not to teach a different doctrine, "neither to give heed to fables and endless genealogies, the which minister questionings, rather than a ¹dispensation of God which
(5) is in faith; so do I now. "But the end of the charge is love out of a pure heart and a good conscience and faith
6 unfeigned: "from which things some having ²swerved
7 have turned aside unto vain talking, "desiring to be teachers of the law, though they understand neither what 8 they say, nor whereof they confidently affirm. "But we
(9) know that the law is good, if a man use it lawfully, "as knowing this, that law is not made for a righteous man, but for the lawless and unruly, for the ungodly and sinners, for the unholy and profane, for ³murderers of fathers
(10) and ³murderers of mothers, for manslayers, "for fornicators, for abusers of themselves with men, for men-stealers, for liars, for false swearers, and if there be any other

(12) I thank him that ¹enabled me, even Christ Jesus our Lord, for that he counted me faithful, appointing me to 13 his service; "though I was before a blasphemer, and a persecutor, and injurious: howbeit I obtained mercy, because I did it ignorantly in unbelief, "and the grace of our Lord abounded exceedingly with faith and love which 14 (15) is in Christ Jesus. "Faithful is the saying, and worthy of all acceptance, that Christ Jesus came into the world 16 to save sinners, of whom I am chief: "howbeit for this cause I obtained mercy, that in me as chief might Jesus Christ shew forth all his longsuffering, for an ensample of them which should hereafter believe on him unto eternal abundantly unto the heirs of the promise the immutabil-18 ity of his counsel, ¹interposed with an oath : "that by two immutable things, in which it is impossible for God to lie, we may have a strong encouragement, who have fled

 so to say, through Abraham even Levi, who receiveth 10 tithes, hath paid tithes , "for he was yet in the loins of his father, when Melchizedek met him.
 11 Now if there was perfection through the Levitical priesthood (for under it hath the people received the law), what further need was there that another priest should arise after the order of Melchizedek, and not be reckoned 12 after the order of Aaron ? "For the priesthood being changed, there is made of necessity a change also ¹of the having done the will of God, ye may receive the promise.

(37 "For yet a very little while,
He that cometh shall come, and shall not tarry.
(38 "But ¹my righteous one shall live by faith :
And if he shrink back, my soul hath no pleasure in him.
39 "But we are not ²of them that shrink back unto perdition ; but of them that have faith unto the ³saving of the soul.
11 1 Now faith is ⁴the assurance of things hoped for, the 2 ⁵proving of things not seen. "For therein the elders had 3 witness borne to them. "By faith we understand that the ⁶worlds have been framed by the word of God, so that what is seen hath not been made out of things which do 4 appear. "By faith Abel offered unto God a more excellent sacrifice than Cain, through which he had witness borne to him that he was righteous, ⁷God bearing witness ⁸in respect of his gifts : and through it he being dead yet (5 speaketh. "By faith Enoch was translated that he should not see death , and he was not found, because God translated him : for before his translation he hath had witness borne to him that he had been well-pleasing unto God : 6 "and without faith it is impossible to be well-pleasing unto him : for he that cometh to God must believe that he is,
and that he is a rewarder of them that seek after him.

not seen as yet, moved with godly fear, prepared an ark to the saving of his house ; through which he condemned the world, and became heir of the righteousness which

(8) is according to faith. "By faith Abraham, when he was called, obeyed to go out unto a place which he was to receive for an inheritance , and he went out, not knowing 9 whither he went. "By faith he became a sojourner in the land of promise, as in a land not his own, ¹dwelling in tents, with Isaac and Jacob, the heirs with him of the 10 same promise : "for he looked for the city which hath the
(11) foundations, whose ²builder and maker is God. "By faith even Sarah herself received power to conceive seed when she was past age, since she counted him faithful who had
(12) promised : "wherefore also there sprang of one, and him as good as dead, so many as the stars of heaven in multitude, and as the sand, which is by the sea shore, innumerable.

(13) These all died ³in faith, not having received the promises, but having seen them and greeted them from afar, and having confessed that they were strangers and pilgrims on the earth. "For they that say such things make it manifest that they are seeking after a country of their 14 own. "And if indeed they had been mindful of that country from which they went out, they would have had opportunity to return. "But now they desire a better country, that is, a heavenly : wherefore God is not ashamed of them, to be called their God : for he hath prepared for them a city.

 sons of Joseph , and worshipped, leaning upon the top of parents, because they saw he was a goodly child , and 24 they were not afraid of the king's commandment. "By faith Moses, when he was grown up, refused to be be evil entreated with the people of God, than to enjoy (26 the pleasures of sin for a season , "accounting the reproach of ¹Christ greater riches than the treasures of Egypt : for he looked unto the recompense of reward.

 king : for he endured, as seeing him who is invisible.

 blood, that the destroyer of the firstborn should not touch

THE GENERAL EPISTLE OF JAMES.

- 1 ¹ JAMES, a ¹servant of God and of the Lord Jesus Christ, to the twelve tribes which are of the Dispersion, ²greeting.
- 2) Count it all joy, my brethren, when ye fall into mani-3 fold ³temptations, "knowing that the proof of your faith 4 worketh patience. "And let patience have its perfect work, that ye may be perfect and entire, lacking in nothing.
- 5 But if any of you lacketh wisdom, let him ask of God,
who giveth to all liberally and upbraideth not, and it 6 shall be given him. "But let him ask in faith, nothing doubting: for he that doubteth is like the surge of the 7 sea driven by the wind and tossed. "For let not that man think ⁴that he shall receive any thing of the Lord ; 8 "a doubleminded man, unstable in all his ways.
- 9 But let the brother of low degree glory in his high es-10 tate: "and the rich, in that he is made low: because as 11 the flower of the grass he shall pass away. "For the sun ariseth with the scorching wind, and withereth the grass ;
and the flower thereof falleth, and the grace of the fashion of it perisheth : so also shall the rich man fade away in his goings.
- 12 Blessed is the man that endureth temptation : for when he hath been approved, he shall receive the crown of life, 13 which the Lord promised to them that love him. "Let no man say when he is tempted, I am tempted ⁵of God : for God ⁶cannot be tempted with ⁷evil, and he himself tempt-it hath conceived, beareth sin : and the sin, when it is 20 man be swift to hear, slow to speak, slow to wrath : "for the wrath of man worketh not the righteousness of God.

³wickedness, receive with meekness the ⁴implanted word, 22 which is able to save your souls. "But be ye doers of the word, and not hearers only, deluding your own selves.

is like unto a man beholding ⁵his natural face in a mirror :

(25 way forgetteth what manner of man he was. "But he that looketh into the perfect law, the law of liberty, and so continueth, being not a hearer that forgetteth, but a doer that worketh, this man shall be blessed in his doing.
(26 "If any man ⁶thinketh himself to be religious, while he bridleth not his tongue but deceiveth his heart, this man's

THE SECOND EPISTLE GENERAL OF PETER.

1 (1) ¹ SIMON Peter, a ² servant and apostle of Jesus Christ, to them that have obtained ³ a like precious faith with us in the righteousness of ⁴ our God and Saviour Jesus Christ:
² "Grace to you and peace be multiplied in the knowledge of ³ God and of Jesus our Lord; "seeing that his divine power hath granted unto us all things that pertain unto life and godliness, through the knowledge of him that called us
⁴ ⁵ by his own glory and virtue, "whereby he hath granted unto us his precious and exceeding great promises, that through these ye may become partakers of ⁶ the divine nature, having escaped from the corruption that is in the

⁶ your virtue knowledge, "and in your knowledge ⁷ temperance, and in your ⁷ temperance patience, and in your pa-⁷ tience godliness, "and in your godliness love of the brethren;

THE FIRST EPISTLE GENERAL OF JOHN

1 (1) THAT which was from the beginning, that which we have heard, that which we have seen with our eyes, that which we beheld, and our hands handled, concerning the (2)¹ Word of life "(and the life was manifested, and we have seen, and bear witness, and declare unto you the life, the eternal life, which was with the Father, and was manifested unto us) ; "that which we have seen and heard declare we unto you also, that ye also may have fellowship with us : yea, and our fellowship is with the Father, and (4) with his Son Jesus Christ : "and these things we write, that ²our joy may be fulfilled.

5 And this is the message which we have heard from him, and announce unto you, that God is light, and in him is 6 no darkness at all. "If we say that we have fellowship with him, and walk in the darkness, we lie, and do not (7) the truth : "but if we walk in the light, as he is in the light, we have fellowship one with another, and the blood 8 of Jesus his Son cleanseth us from all sin. "If we say that we have no sin, we deceive ourselves, and the truth is not 9 in us. "If we confess our sins, he is faithful and righteous to forgive us our sins, and to cleanse us from all unright- 10 eousness. "If we say that we have not sinned, we make him a liar, and his word is not in us.

 an old commandment which ye had from the beginning :
 the old commandment is the word which ye heard.

 thing is true in him and in you ; because the darkness is

5 1 Whosoever believeth that Jesus is the Christ is begotten of God: and whosoever loveth him that begat loveth 2 him also that is begotten of him. "Hereby we know that we love the children of God, when we love God, and do 3 his commandments. "For this is the love of God, that we keep his commandments: and his commandments are not 4 grievous. "For whatsoever is begotten of God overcome eth the world: and this is the victory that hath overcome 5 the world, even our faith. "And who is he that overcome

 *(8 beareth witness, because the Spirit is the truth. "For there are three who bear witness, the Spirit, and the wa-9) ter, and the blood: and the three agree in one. "If we receive the witness of men, the witness of God is greater:
 for the witness of God is this, that he hath borne witness 10 concerning his Son. "He that believeth on the Son of God hath the witness in him: he that believeth not God hath made him a liar, because he hath not believed in 11) the witness that God hath borne concerning his Son. "And the witness is this, that God gave unto us eternal life, and (12 this life is in his Son. "He that hath the Son hath the life; he that hath not the Son of God hath not the life.

I love in truth, and not I only, but also all they that 2 know the truth; "for the truth's sake which abideth in us,
(3) and it shall be with us for ever: "Grace, mercy, peace shall be with us, from God the Father, and from Jesus Christ, the Son of the Father, in truth and love.

(4 I rejoice greatly that I have found certain of thy children walking in truth, even as we received commandment 5 from the Father. "And now I beseech thee, lady, not as though I wrote to thee a new commandment, but that which we had from the beginning, that we love one an-
(6) other. "And this is love, that we should walk after his commandments. This is the commandment, even as ye 7 heard from the beginning, that ye should walk in it. "For many deceivers are gone forth into the world, even they that confess not that Jesus Christ cometh in the flesh.
8 This is the deceiver and the antichrist. "Look to yourselves, that ye ¹lose not the things which ²we have (9 wrought, but that ye receive a full reward. "Whosoever ³goeth onward and abideth not in the teaching of Christ, hath not God: he that abideth in the teaching, the same

"And the armies which are in heaven followed him upon white horses, clothed in fine linen, white (15) and pure. "And out of his mouth proceedeth a sharp sword, that with it he should smite the nations : and he shall rule them with a rod of iron : and he treadeth the ³winepress of the fierceness of the wrath of Almighty (16) God. "And he hath on his garment and on his thigh a name written, KING OF KINGS, AND LORD OF LORDS.

CONDENSED NUMERICAL SUMMARY

THE table given below is a condensed exhibit of so much of the detailed "Numerical Summary" found at the end of the volume as can be thus presented. The added feature here is the column showing the number of paragraphs into which the Revisers, in discarding the ordinary verse system (which has been in use since 1551), have divided the New Testament. The average number of words in a paragraph is one hundred and fifty-nine and a half; the average number in a verse is a fraction less than twenty-three. Most of the totals shown in the column footings of the ensuing table are cited in the "Editor's Preface."

The verses in the Revised New Testament which have received or lost some word or words by transference are 25 in number. They are marked with the Star or Dagger, and are the following: Matt. xxv. 15, 16; Mark vii. 21, 22; Luke xxi. 34, 35; Acts iv. 5, 6; xiii. 19, 20, 32, 33; xv. 17, 18; Rom. i. 3, 4; Philip. i. 16, 17; Heb. vi. 4, 6; 1 Pet. i. 1, 2; 1 John v. 6, 7, 8.

The number of verses in the Student's Revised N. T. that have no diacritical mark is 713. The number of verses marked only by the curve denoting transposition of some retained words is 59. The total number of verses diacritically marked is 7,230.

Distributing the 179,914 Words of the text of the Revised New Testament among the writers of the several books, the total number of words belonging to each writer is as follows:—PAUL, fourteen books, 50,649; LUKE, two books, 49,865; JOHN, five books, 34,236; MATTHEW, one book, 23,407; MARK, one book, 14,854; PETER, two books, 3,966; JAMES, one book, 2,306; JUDE, one book, 631.

List of readings and renderings preferred by the American Committee, recorded at their desire. See Preface, page xix.

CLASSES OF PASSAGES.

- I. Strike out "S." (i. e. Saint) from the title of the Gospels and from the heading of the pages.
- II. Strike out "the Apostle" from the title of the Pauline Epistles, and "of Paul the Apostle" from the title of the Epistle to the Hebrews; strike out the word "General" from the title of the Epistles of James, Peter, 1 John, and Jude; and let the title of the Revelation run "The Revelation of John."
- III. For "Holy Ghost" adopt uniformly the rendering "Holy Spirit."
- IV. At the word "worship" in Matt. ii. 2, etc., add the marginal note "The Greek word denotes an act of reverence, whether paid to man (see chap. xviii. 26) or to God (see chap. iv. 10)."
- V. Put into the text uniformly the marginal rendering "through" in place of "by" when it relates to prophecy, viz. in Matt. ii. 5, 17, 23; iii. 3; iv. 14; viii. 17; xii. 17; xiii. 35; xxi. 4; xxiv. 15; xxvii. 9; Luke xviii. 31; Acts ii. 16; xxviii. 25.
- VI. For "tempt" ("temptation") substitute "try" or "make trial of" ("trial") wherever enticement to what is wrong is not evidently spoken of; viz. in the following instances: Matt. iv. 7; xvi. 1; xix. 3; xxii. 18, 35; Mark viii. 11; x. 2; xii. 15; Luke iv. 12; x. 25; xi. 16; xxii. 28; John viii. 6; Acts v. 9; xv. 10; 1 Cor. x. 9; Heb. iii. 8, 9; 1 Pet. i. 6.
- VII. Substitute modern forms of speech for the following archaisms, viz. "who" or "that" for "which" when used of persons; "are" for "be" in the present indicative; "know" "knew" for "wot" "wist"; "drag" or "drag away" for "hale."
- VIII. Substitute for "devil" ("devils") the word "demon" ("demons") wherever the latter word is given in the margin (or represents the Greek words δαίμων, δαιμόνιον); and for "possessed with a devil" (or "devils") substitute either "demoniac" or "possessed with a demon" (or "demons").
- IX. After "baptize" let the marg. "Or, in" and the text "with" exchange places.
- X. Let the word "testament" be everywhere changed to "covenant" (without an alternate in the margin), except in Heb. ix. 15—17.
- XI. Wherever "patience" occurs as the rendering of ὑπομονή add "steadfastness" as an alternate in the margin, except in 2 Cor. i. 6; James v. 11; Luke viii. 15; Heb. xii. 1.
- XII. Let ἀσδράριον (Matt. x. 29; Luke xii. 6) be translated "penny," and δηνάριον "shilling," except in Matt. xxii. 19; Mark xii. 15; Luke xx. 24, where the name of the coin, "a denarius," should be given.
- XIII. Against the expression "the God and Father of our Lord Jesus Christ" add the marginal rendering "Or, God and the Father" etc.; viz. in Rom. xv. 6; 2 Cor. i. 3; xi. 31; Eph. i. 3; Col. i. 3; 1 Pet. i. 3. And against the expression "our God and Father" add the marg. "Or, God and our Father"; viz. in Gal. i. 4; Phil. iv. 20; 1 Thess. i. 3; iii. 11, 13; Jas. i. 27. And against the expression "his God and Father" add the marg. Or, God and his Father, viz. in Rev. i. 6.
- XIV. Let the use of "fulfil" be confined to those cases in which it denotes "accomplish," "bring to pass," or the like.

MATTHEW

- III. 7 Against "to his baptism" add marg. Or, for baptism 10 For "is the axe laid unto" read "the axe lieth at" So in Luke iii. 9.

- VI. 11 Let the marg. read Gr. our bread for the coming day, or our needful bread. So in Luke xi. 3.
 27 For "his stature" read "the measure of his life" (with marg. Or, his stature) So in Luke xii. 25.
 VIII. 4 Here and in Matt. xxvii. 65; Mark i. 44, for "go thy [your] way" read simply "go"
 IX. 6, 8 For "power" read "authority" (see marg.⁵) So in Mark ii. 10; Luke v. 24.

NUMERICAL SUMMARY

THE user of this volume who is familiar with the Explanation of the diacritical marks and foot-notes which faces the Gospel of Matthew will readily comprehend the principal parts of the ensuing Summary, as well as the condensed exhibit of them which, with additions, appears on page 602.—In the following table, a distinct feature, of subordinate value, is embodied in columns 3, 4, and 5. By their aid may be found the N. T. chapter of any occurring length in words. E. g. the student desiring to find a chapter of 600 words first seeks the number “600” in column 4; the number to the right of that, in column 5, cites him to the 150th chapter of the N. T.; column 3 shows the 150th chapter to be 2 Cor. i.; and column 12 gives its length as 600 words.—The average length of the chapters of the Revised N. T. is 692 words; the chapter most nearly approximating the average is Hebrews ix., which contains 696 words.
